THE 1950 MARTINAIRE

"I know a place where the sun is like gold,
And the cherry blossoms burst with snow,
And down underneath is the loveliest nook,
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

"One leaf is for hope, and one is for faith,
And one is for love, you know,
And God put another in for luck,—
If you search, you will find where they grow.

"But you must have hope, and you must have faith,
You must love and be strong—and so,
If you work, if you wait, you will find the place
Where the four-leaf clovers grow."

Foreword

As Martin College ends its eightieth year, we the seniors of 1950 realize how fortunate we are to have been a part of such an institution. 1870 marked the beginning of a school which has greatly enriched our lives. It is our sincere desire that this Martinaire will be a symbol of our happiness and fellowship during our two years here. May we continue to strive for the goals set while we were students at Martin—faith in our fellow-men, love for all humanity, achievement of our ideals, and a brotherhood of peace.

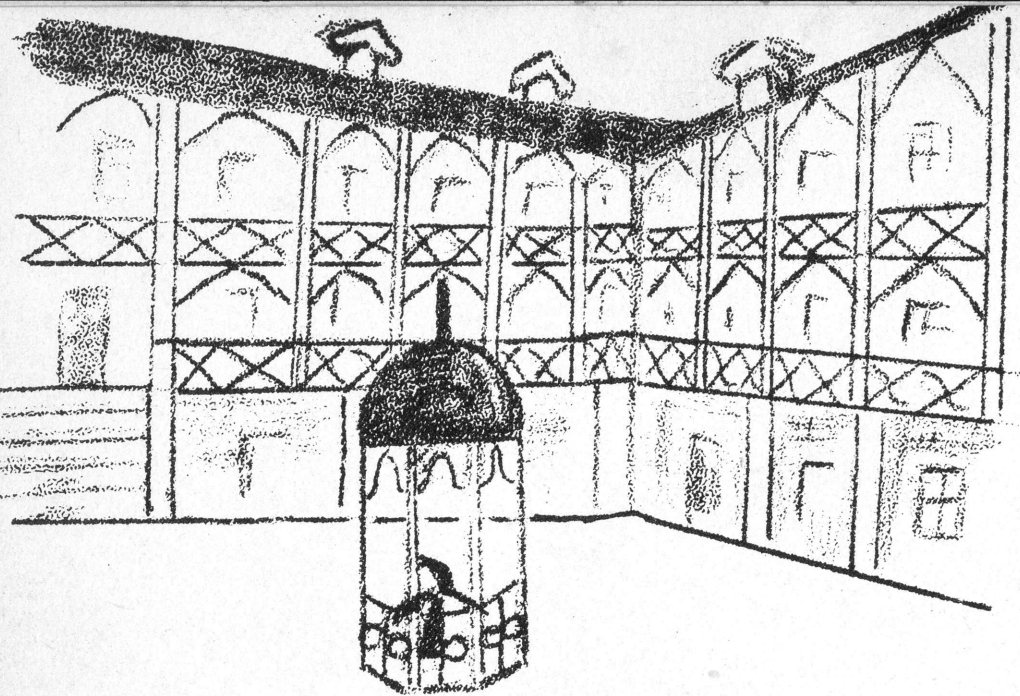

Dedication

MRS. E. C. COLLINS

To one who is sincerely interested in students as well as in her art we dedicate this edition of the Martinaire. Gracious and charming in manner, she combines what is best in the tradition of the college with present day insight and vision for the future. Through the years she has enriched our lives with her music. Kind, generous and faithful, Mrs. Collins is an inspiration to Martin students who know and love her.

OUR FIRST

First Martin Building (back view)

"Let us greet our dear old college
With a hearty cheer!
For our hearts are ever loyal
Alma Mater dear.

We're the students of old Martin
College old and dear
With our faces all set onward
Voices ringing clear."

Martin College has a name and a heritage of which we may be very proud. Born in a Virginia Methodist parsonage, Thomas M. Martin came to Tennessee as a lad and spent most of his life as a highly respected and successful citizen of Giles County. "Imbued with a deep religious fervor, which characterized his entire life, he early joined the Methodist Church, of which he was ever after an active and earnest member."

Mr. Martin's daughter, Victoria, youngest of five children, died at the age of twenty. On her deathbed she requested her father to establish in Pulaski a school for girls. He died soon after her death but he had provided in his will for the establishment of the school. Our school has thus been called "the answer to a maiden's prayer."

"A full meeting of the officers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South established at Pulaski" was called on June 21, 1870, to consider the "noble bequest" of the late Thomas Martin. Plans were made for the incorporation of the Martin Female College. Funds were raised in Pulaski to provide grounds and a building so that the original gift might be kept intact as an endowment. Classes were soon started in the basement of the Methodist Church. The first president, William K. Jones, was selected in 1873 and the first class graduated in 1874. A year later the school moved into the first Martin College building.

"Old Martin" with its perfect colonial front, the formal flower beds bordered with boxwood, the stately magnolia trees, the picket fence at the front with the high arch over the gateway, was the nucleus of the enlarged building that later burned.

Little girls played within the box circles and vied with one another in assuming dignity, long trains of borrowed shawls, and discipline over the group when their turn came to play "Mamma" until the bell rang after morning recess or lunch.

The big back porch with a long shelf on the rail to hold many water buckets and many more dippers was a rendezvous for eating lunches from little covered baskets. The huge cistern was near by and furnished water in abundance; there were no recognizable germs in the 1870's.

In the '70's and '80's there were no radios, no movies, no autos, few telephones and "everybody in town" went to Martin programs. Commencement lasted a full week. Before this hectic week, the big ugly barrel stoves were taken down. These symbols and instruments of discomfort that kept some of the pupils "burning up," others "freezing to death," were necessary evils and were gladly dispensed with. Then came the cleaning up and decorating. The rectangular stage at the south end of the auditorium was decorated with boughs and blossoms of magnolia and red roses.

To the south of the present campus was a garden where corn, potatoes, and cabbage grew in profusion. This plot was later sold to help build our present Martin Hall.

During the first three decades of its life the college flourished as one of the prominent schools in the South for young women. In some respects it was a finishing school but the records show that it offered curriculum of four years' work. The M.E.L. (Mistress of English Literature) and B.A. degrees were conferred and the M.A. was conferred after completion of one year of postgraduate work. The chairman of the Board of Trustees, Judge John S. Wilkes speaking at the laying of the cornerstone in 1898 stated that "We are laying the cornerstone of an extension which will make our plant more complete than can be found in all the Southern Country."

Disaster struck in 1904 and the large building with its equipment was burned to the ground. By 1906 a new building, the present Martin Hall, was ready for use. Questions about the ownership of the college were settled in 1908 when an agreement was reached to transfer the property to the Annual Conference of the Methodist Church. At this time the name, Martin College, was assumed. With educational standards becoming more specific, the institution became a junior college in 1914, still retaining some secondary work. The same year the present Tennessee Hall was built. In 1935 the Chancery Court eliminated the limitations in the charter, making it possible for the college to admit males. Since that time it has been operated by the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Church as a co-educational junior college, under the direction of its Board of Trustees.

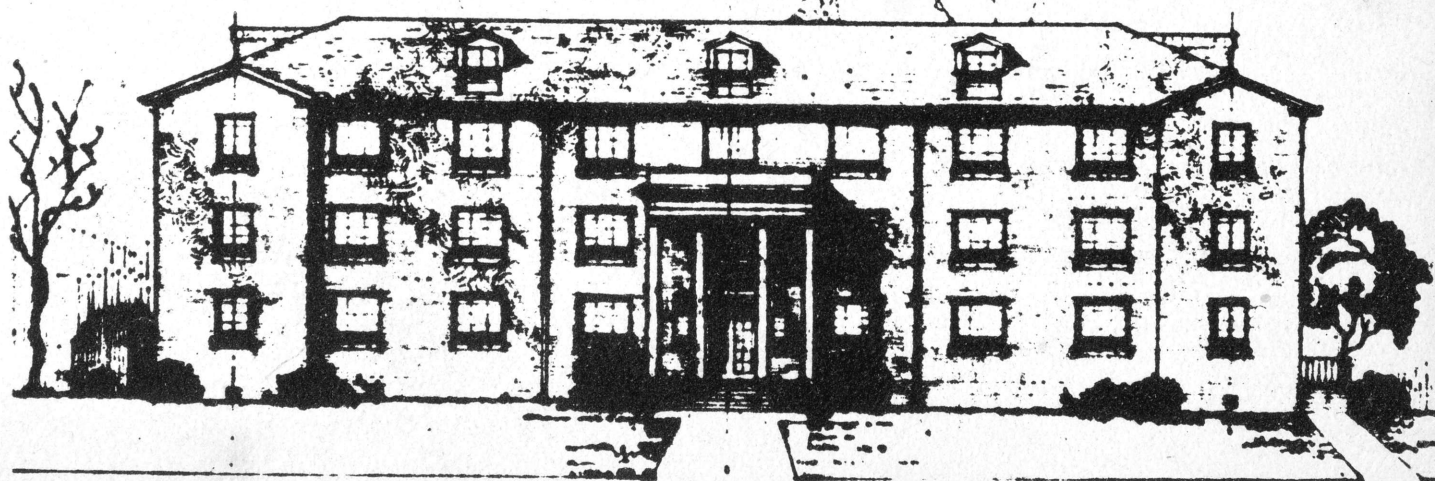

Martin is committed to a program of junior college work with high academic standards, with individual attention for each student and with Christian emphasis.

WE SING:

"Broad the fields about us lying
Soft and blue the sky
Sing, O sing aloud her praises
Raise the flag on high.

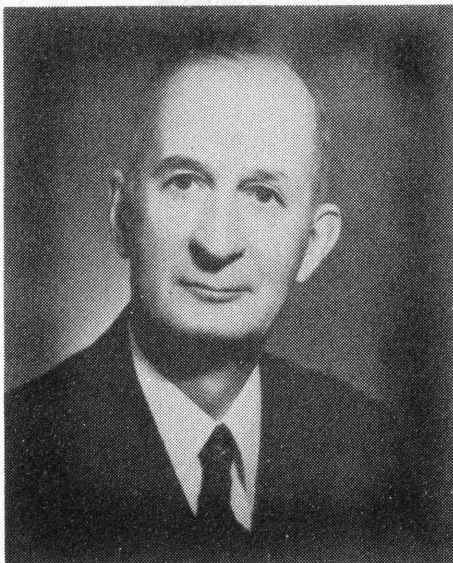

Tho our bonds can ne'er be broken
Sealed by friendship's tie
Our true hearts will ever cherish
Memories gone by."

To Students, Faculty, Alumni and Friends of Martin College:

This has been a significant year in the life of Martin College. Eighty years ago this June the official board of the Pulaski Methodist Church met to consider a bequest in the will of the late Thomas M. Martin. Soon thereafter the actual school work of Martin College began.

The College has had a long and honorable history. There have been peaks, plateaus, and valleys but they all add up to good.

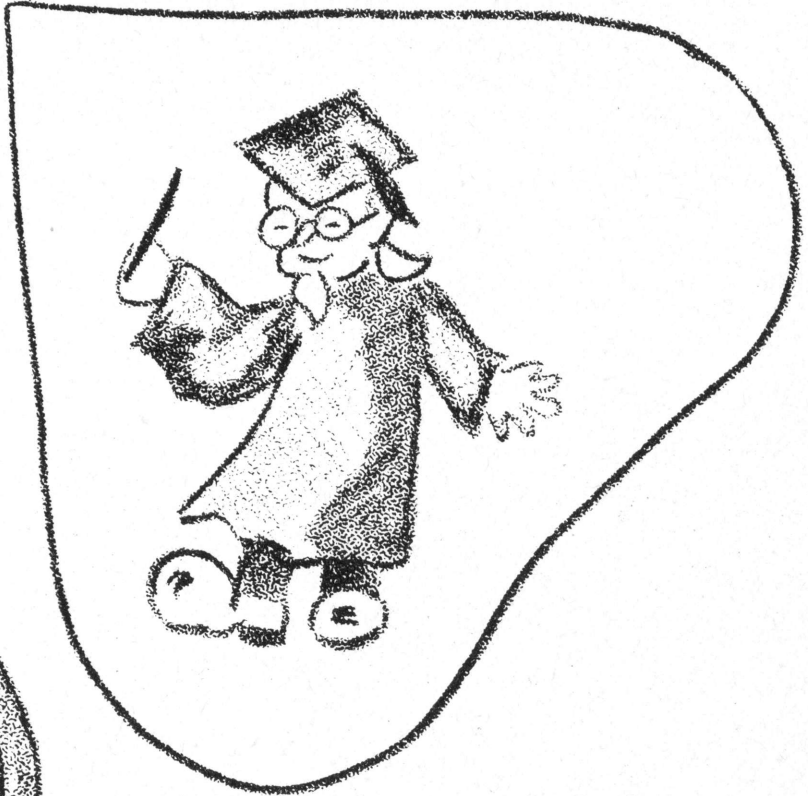

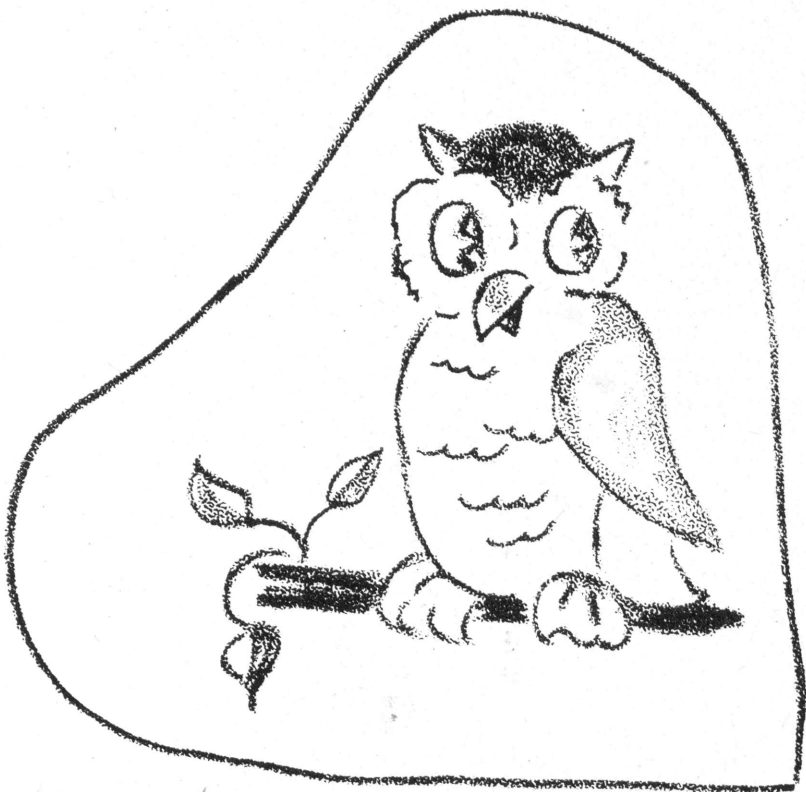

The privilege of adding this year, the eightieth milestone, has been ours. A splendid student body, a strong faculty, the largest senior class in Martin's history, loyal and successful alumni, an able board of trustees, and many other benevolent friends have contributed to the marked success of this year.

The MARTINAIRE staff deserves much credit for preparing this record book which will remind us for years to come of the challenging and joyous days of this year.

As we close this year may we join our spirits in prayer for a greater and stronger Martin.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council consists of representatives elected by the student body. It is concerned with the life and activities of the college student, aiming for better understanding and cooperation in accordance with the policies of the college.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Each student is a member of the Student Christian Association. Participation in its activities makes one become a part of it. The officers and cabinet members have a large share in directing the student religious activities such as Wednesday evening worship services, Friday chapel programs, and the Student Volunteer Group.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

The Student Volunteers is a department of the Student Christian Association of Martin College. It is composed of those students entering into a life of full-time service for Christ. Its aim is to enrich the lives of those belonging to it in Christian experience, to further the spiritual lives of the Volunteers, and to unite those who are making a vocation of some phase of Christian service.

STUDENT MINISTERS

Another group of S. C. A. members consists of fourteen students who plan to be ministers. This is the largest actively functioning group of student pastors the college has enrolled. Most of them have already received their local pastor's license and are holding services or assisting regular pastors in services. Actual practice is combined with classroom theory in order to serve the Methodist Church while studying the art of human relations. Bi-monthly meetings are held with ministers of various faiths invited to address the group.

DAVID ELIASON

In David is found the interesting combination of a keen sense of humor and a deep spiritual insight. Always ready to share in the task to be done, David also has time to maintain a high scholastic average. His sincerity and understanding will long be remembered by those of us who know him.

CAMPUS

WILLA WITT

"Witt" is her name and a fitting one it is, too. Her cheerful disposition and hearty laughter bring happiness to all of us. Friendliness plus consideration for others make her a well-liked person. She has shown her ability to play basketball on many occasions. She is a versatile girl with a determination to do her best in every undertaking.

JACK HENDRICKSON

As President of the Freshman Class Jack has proved his popularity on the campus and his ability as a leader. His membership in Phi Theta Kappa and the International Relations Club attest to his scholarship and seriousness of purpose. His personality and traits are those that inspire confidence and lead to a wealth of friendships.

PERSONALITIES

NATHALEE PENNINGTON

In Nathalee's eyes we see shining pools of kindness which speak louder than words. Her soft voice has that quality which can only be interpreted as human understanding and her smile is one that comes from the heart. In her quiet and gracious manner she sets an example which we all want to follow. Her character and scholarship are a good foundation for a life of full time Christian service.

NANCY SADLER

Always ready to do her part — that's Nancy. This is just one of the many characteristics that make her an outstanding person on our campus. As president of the Student Christian Association she has served well. Here we have a person whom we shall remember for her Christian character, winning personality, scholarship, and other fine qualities which she has shared with us these two years.

CAMPUS

MAURICE MOORE

Seriousness and wit combine to make Maurice a person with whom one feels at ease. His personality can be no better described than to say that although he enjoys a good laugh as well as anyone, on the other hand he is thoughtful, sincere, and always ready to help anyone who needs him. Maurice is a good leader and a promising young minister.

PAUL BOONE

With his sense of humor, musical talent and magnetic personality, Paul has come to be a valuable member of the Martin family. He's always willing to lend a helping hand. His courtesy, kindness and friendliness make him outstanding on our campus. Dependability is another quality which serves to make him well-liked by both students and faculty. With traits like these success can be his.

PERSONALITIES

PEGGY SMITH

Peggy's efficient manner as dormitory council president; her work in the various clubs; and her friendly smile and disposition are some of the qualities which make her a campus personality. Her interest in people and her kindness make her one whom we shall remember.

KOLLEEN BRAKE

A genuine loyalty and a deep sense of responsibility plus a personality sparkled with gaiety makes Kolleen an outstanding senior on our campus. As editor of the MARTINET she has added much to our college experiences.

Dear Diary

FALL QUARTER

September 20

Today was an exciting day for many green freshmen who arrived today to register and to get situated in their new living quarters. Tonight the bashful freshmen gave a talent show for the faculty and the students who had arrived. Everyone was tucked in bed by ten-thirty with dreams of a year packed with friends and fun.

September 22

Tonight we had a folk game party on the lawn in front of Tennessee Hall. The County Agent led the group in games after which cokes and doughnuts were served. This was a good get-acquainted party and everyone had a fine time.

September 23

This morning the formal opening of the 1949-50 year of Martin College was held in the auditorium with Dr. King Vivion of Nashville as the main speaker. Many friends from town were present and it was a good beginning for the eightieth year. The seniors arrived today.

September 24

This afternoon the school entertained the students with a big picnic at Bevel Springs. During the afternoon everyone either hiked, played games, or played soft-ball. Everyone found himself a coat hanger on which to roast weiners and gathered around the huge fire. After a delicious meal the group sang songs around the friendly bonfire.

September 25

This morning at the Methodist Church Martin College Day was observed and in the afternoon members of the Methodist Church took the new students of Martin on a tour of Pulaski and surrounding points of interest.

September 29

Tonight in Tennessee Hall, President and Mrs. Elam were hosts at a reception given for the students of Martin. After meeting the faculty in the receiving line, we met in the recreation room for refreshments served by Mrs. Clay Walker and Mrs. Collins from a beautifully arranged table.

October 8

"Put on your little dresses, and bring all your toys to the Big-Little-Sister and Brother Party tonight in the gym." These were the instructions given by the seniors about this exciting party. Everyone had a fine time playing kid games. Prizes were won by Mary Riddle Roller and Merlin Cooper.

October 12

Good food and plenty of fun were in order on this night when the George Morgan Bible Class of the First Methodist Church gave a picnic in the gym for all the students. Their thoughtfulness was really appreciated as could be seen by the long lines in front of the food and the smiles on all the faces.

October 25

Today begins our Religious Emphasis Week at Martin. Rev. Thornton Fowler is going to be present with us in our chapel periods and he will be available for counseling groups all week.

October 31

Tonight the gym was decorated with corn shocks, grinning jack-o'-lanterns, and other Halloween symbols for our big party. The House of Horrors was our first obstacle because you had to go through it before you could join the party. In the costume contest Kolleen Brake and Nona Corley were the winners. Refreshments consisting of cider and doughnuts hit a favorable spot with all. The party was a big success and spooky enough for everyone.

November 15

The first concert in a series of lyceum concerts was presented tonight in the auditorium. A girls' trio consisting of a violin, harp, and cello gave a beautiful program of classical music. Everyone could talk to the performers after the concert and we found them very interesting.

November 19

"Grab that man and hold on to him" was the theme for Sadie Hawkins' Day. This afternoon was had a Sadie Hawkins' race and tonight a big party in the gym. Shmoos, a life size little Abner, and Daisy Mae were the decorations used. It seems that all the girls went to bed really happy that night. Why? Well, each one had caught a man!

November 22

Hurrah! Thanksgiving holidays begin today and just think, four days of fun, eating, and sleeping. Monday will roll around quickly though and we'll come back to think about exams.

December 2

Tonight the Christmas spirit was ushered in when the Martin College Chorus sang Christmas carols on the public square. The Christmas lights were turned on in town. It won't be long now until Old Santa Claus will be visiting us all. We hope!

December 6

Exams begin today and that means a week of hard study and a little worry. But just think, after exams will come those wonderful holidays and festivities! Exams aren't too bad. Agree?

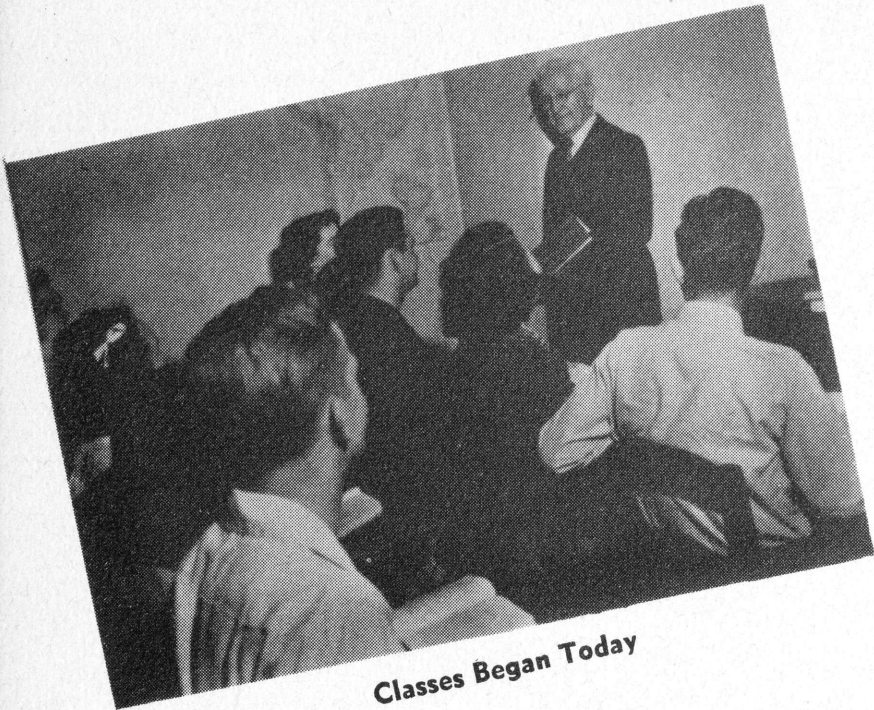

WINTER QUARTER

December 14

Tonight everyone gathered in Tennessee Hall to decorate it with holly and mistletoe. The boys stood on ladders while the girls made bright wreaths for them to hang in the rooms. All agreed that Tennessee Hall had the bright holiday look.

December 15

The music recital was held tonight in the auditorium under the direction of

Classes Began Today

Our Christmas Dinner

Miss Bludworth
at W.S.S.F. Auction

Mrs. Tom Moore and Mrs. Collins, piano and voice teachers. Several pupils of Mrs. Floyd Gilbreath gave readings. The program was excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

December 18

"Beautiful, simple, and impressive" describe the lovely Christmas pageant that was presented this afternoon. It was under the direction of Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Gilbreath. The Glee Club sang in the background and added a perfect setting for the nativity scenes.

December 20

An event long awaited was the Christmas banquet which was held tonight in the dining room. The decorated tables, good food, merry spirit, and funny presents will long be remembered. Santa Claus made his entrance and wished everyone a "Very Merry Christmas."

December 21-January 3

Christmas, fun, home, friends, and food—but we'll be back the 3rd.

January 12

Tonight we had another in the series of lyceum concerts. This visiting artist was Miss Joy Brown, violinist. She was accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. Bates Brown. The audience was held spellbound as Miss Brown played many beautiful arrangements.

January 24

The Commercial Club was host at a party tonight in the gym. Everyone enjoyed lively folk games, a floor show, and refreshments served by the club. We all wish things like this would happen more often!

January 31

"Swing your partner, do-ci-do" was heard out at Petty's Barn when the Future Teacher's Club had an old fashioned hoe-down. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

February 9

"Who will bid four dollars?" was a familiar cry at the W. S. S. F. auction tonight. Col. Bob Keller was the auctioneer and everyone did his part in raising money for a worthy organization.

February 17

The basketball squad went on a ball trip to Tennessee Wesleyan College today. Hope they come back victorious.

March 7

Well, exams start today and the midnight oil will really be burning this week. You can always tell an exam week: sleepy eyes, worried looks, and an armful of books.

SPRING QUARTER

March 14

Just one more quarter at dear old Martin! The spring quarter started today and there are plenty of events in store. Just think: graduation, junior-senior party, and spring vacation.

March 24

Tonight the music and speech departments presented an operetta, "An Old Kentucky Garden." The operetta was based on the music of Stephen Foster with Peggy Young and Alton Brown playing leading roles. Everyone congratulated the cast on a wonderful production!

April 6

The Easter holidays began today! The girls have talked for weeks about that Easter bonnet and frock, so now they are off for home and the Easter parade. Everyone welcomed the holidays but when Tuesday comes we'll all be back ready to begin the last lap of the year.

May 5

The members of this year's S.C.A. cabinet and the cabinet for next year left today for Beersheba Springs where they will have their annual retreat with Rev. Fort Fowler as their guest speaker and counselor. They will plan the work of the Student Christian Association for next year. Sunday afternoon will find them returning to school, tired, happy, and with mission accomplished.

May 20

A gala affair was the junior-senior party tonight. Food, gaiety, lights, color, evening frocks, visiting boys . . . And the eightieth anniversary theme set us reminiscing, too, about the history of our school.

May 26

Tonight we had a real treat. The dignified seniors gave their play, EASTWARD IN EDEN based on the life of Emily Dickinson. The scenery, costumes, and acting helped to create an atmosphere that carried us back to the 1800's. This play, directed by Mrs. Gilbreath, was a fitting climax to the year's dramatic programs.

June 3

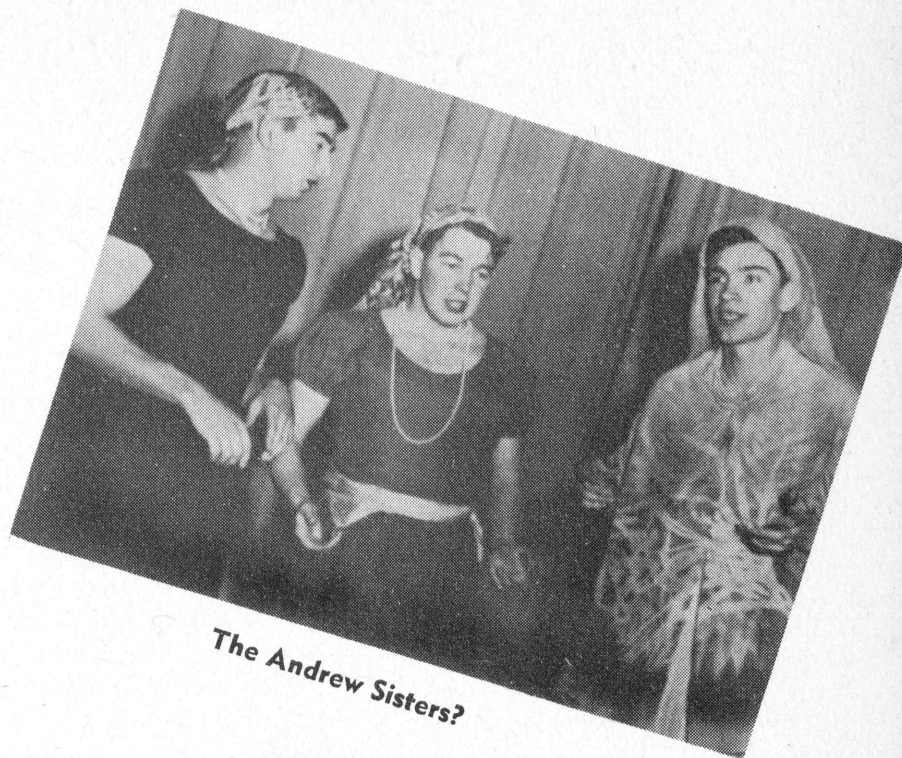

Today is traditionally Alumni Day. Old students from far and near come back to visit Martin and reminisce a bit. We welcome back alumni of Martin!

June 4

Gowned in graduation robes with our tassels on our caps the senior class marched into the church and to the seats reserved for them. This afternoon everyone visited and made those last minutes at Martin count. An impressive close to the day was a vesper service on the lawn.

June 5

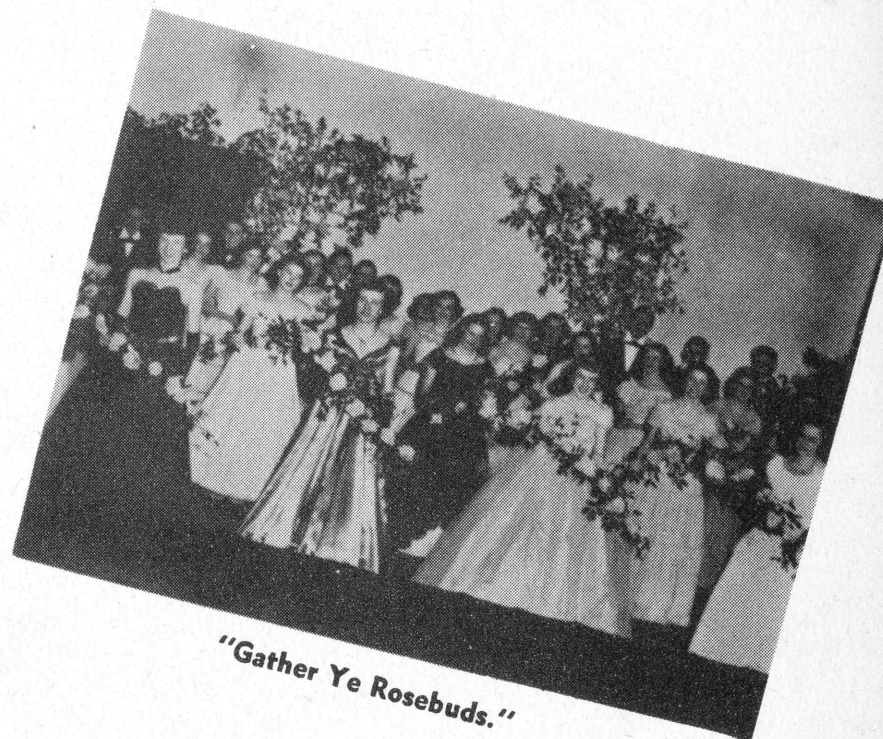

Today is the day to which we have been looking forward for a long time, But now it is here too soon. After the graduation exercises in the auditorium last minute packing will be mingled with goodbyes to our dear friends and the college that we love. Goodbye to our 1949-50 at Martin and to a past that we shall remember always.

In intercollegiate athletics for 1949-1950 volleyball was introduced for both boys' and girls' teams and major changes were made in basketball. The number of senior colleges played during the season was reduced to two, so that the majority of games were with more evenly matched teams from five junior colleges. The week-end trips were an innovation both for our teams and those of our opponents. By playing double header games two nights in succession, travel time and expense were reduced and the intervening day was very profitably spent in closer acquaintance and fellowship between the visiting teams and the colleges visited.

Both boys' and girls' squads played creditably with the boys playing twenty-one games and the girls, ten.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

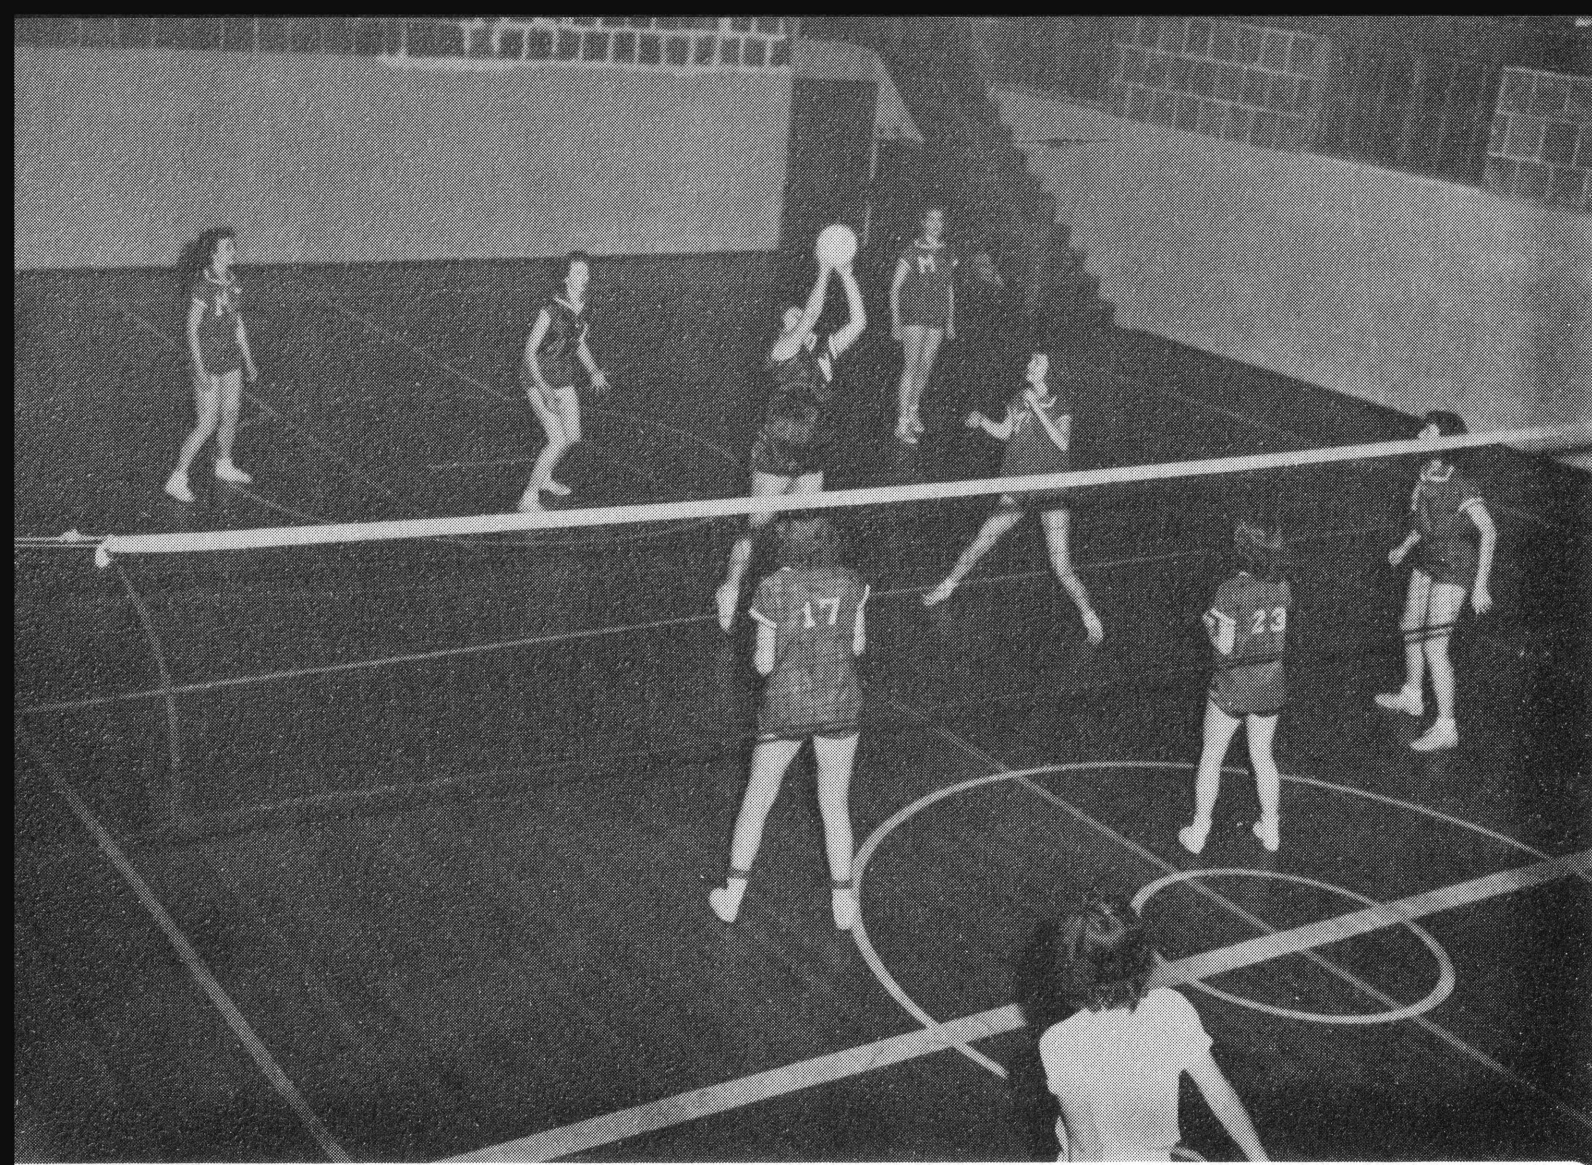

FIRST ROW: Bob Riggins, Alternate Captain, Cornelius Beech, Tom Yokley, Dalton Drennan, Pete Riggins, Cordell Pierce. SECOND ROW: Mr. Henry Sims, Coach, Glenn Allen, Captain, Robert Reid, Alvis Davis, Wayne Abernathy, Wendell Haynes, James Evans, Robert Woodall, Manager.
